Highest of all in Leavening Power .- Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Herman & Hess

Wheelmen

"Hess improved Bicycle with his own pretty toes or to Shoe." They are the best every well-regulated nursery. He made; endorsed by all lead- seemed to have an infantile dislike for ing riders in the country.

Rubber soles guaranteed and extra ones furnished

9 days remain to fill your coupon for a life sized crayon portrait free.

HERMAN & HESS,

ONE-PRICE CLOTHIERS. 406 East Douglas Ave.

Rev. Sam Small,

LECTURE

AT THE

FIRST M.E.CHURCH,

FRIDAY, July 8th.

Subject: "From Bar met him Room to Pulpit.'

Tickets on Sale at Hyde and Humble's.

Snap No. 2.

Hartford Investment Co.

1143 35

I will sell my grocery, having the best

louis and the east for the reason that it is the only Wichita line running two solid trains daily without change of any class to St. Lauis morning and night and it is the only line having palace reclining chair and Puliman sleeping cars in morning and night trains. Always on time and sure of making eastern connections at St. Lou union deput. 24tf

For Kausas City, St. Louis and all points east take the Missouri Pacific railway The shortest line to St. Louis by 48 miles No change of cars of any kind between Wichita and St. Louis. Only fifty hours between Wichita and New York City via he Misseuri Pacific railway. City ticke flice 120 North Main street. 101t if Advice to Mothers. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It disliked southes the child, softens the gums, allays It was all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarhoes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Used by millions of mothers.

Why pay $1.50 for Dr. A. W. Chase's first book, thirty years old, revised and the greater part added by the publisher, R. A. Beale, when you can get his third, by the doctor, for $2.50? Sold by agents only. 642.5*

Raticoad Arrangements for the National Es-

For the National Encampment, G. A. R., at Washington in September next, the Ohio and Mississippi railway offers an excellent service of through limited buffet restibuled express trains with Pullman sleeping cats from St. Louis to Washing-ton. The encampment will be the great-est event in Washington since the grand

No railroad in America is better conin ped than the O and M and connecting ines to transport large volumes of passen-ger traffic with dispatch, safety and comort. Their long experience in transport ing crowds to inauguration ceremonies, Kuights Templar conclutes, and similar gatherings on an extensive scale, will prove most valuable in carrying the thousands to the encampment.

The O. and M. and connecting lines form the shortest route to Washington from nearly all points west: carrying the traveler over the crest of the Alieghenies, smid the most pic-Alleghenies, smid the most pic-turesque scenery in America, passing through West Virginia, Maryland and through the heart of the Old Dominion, the scene of some of the heaviest righting of the war, with Clarksburg, Martins-burg, Antietam, Harper's Ferry, Mary-land Heights, Cedar Mountain, Culpeper, Brandy Station, Warrenton, Manassas, and Egister on the control of the control of the con-trol of the control of the control of the control of the station of the control of the control of the control of the station of the control of the contr Brandy Station, Warrenton, Manassas and Fairfax on the way, and forming the direct line to Gettysburg. The round trip rate from St. Louis will be $18, or 1 cent per mile, via the O. and M. and connecing lines, and lines west will make rates on the same basis, selling through tickets vis St. Louis and the O. and M. railway. Lines centering at Washington will sell excursion tickets at greatly reduced rates from Washington to Maryland and Viz from washington to maryland and virginia battlefields during the encampment.

For rates of fare, routes, time of trains, and further information, address A. d. Lytle, General Western Passenger Agent, O. and M. railway, 100 North Broadway, stones and a shaking of her dust against

A CURE FOR MELANCHOLY. The Find That Transformed a Man's

When he was but a tiny little baby Deepthinker wore an almost painfully thoughtful expression on his face. While yet in the cradle he seemed to have a premonition that life was not to are invited to inspect the be a joke with him. He refused to play amused by the ordinary toys found in Pope's lines:

Behold the child by nature's kindly law Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw.

So far as his own case was concerned, he proved Mr. Pope to be a wholesale falsifier. He refused to be pleased or tickled with anything. His whole de-portment said plainer than words could do that if he had his life to live over again he wouldn't do it. During childhood and youth his melancholy seemed to become more intense than ever. He was awful sorry about everything. Everybody said that falling in love might cure his malady, but it didn't. After he married he was so sad that grass would not grow in the yard about his house, and every dog that carght sight of him howled mournfully. If he had worn blue goggles the world would not have looked any darker to him. Other people who had an idea that they were sad about something gave up the thought on seeing him. They felt that their burden was as nothing compared with

He tried attending the theater and base ball games, and even read the funny papers, but nothing could bring a smile to his face. He grew worse as he grew older. His wife became alarmed, and consulted doctors, preachers, lawyers, and fortune tellers, but all to no purpose. She felt assured that his long, deep, impenetrable night of gloom would some day end in suicide or insanity. She expected it any time, and so did all the neighbors, who used to look anxiously into his face every time they

Last Sunday morning he seemed to be particularly gloomy as he went to his room to dress for church. Presently his wife heard sounds of violent fits of laughter coming from his apartments, and she knew that her worst fears were realized-that the melancholy strain had been too much for him and his mind had given way. She trembled as 75 feet of ground with she thought of the consequences. She dared not let him know that she noticed good orchard, two story, 7 the change in his manner. On the way room house, hall closets, to church he laughed so heartily that fine arrangements, good reduring the services he haw-hawed till pair, call and see photo-graph.—Price $550. kissed the babies and smiled on the young ladies, and acted altogether very much like a clown in the circus.

By and by a hope began to dawn in his wife's mind that may be his joility was of a permanent nature. What a H. J. Muller having bought out the grocery of J. T. Dorsey will continue the business at the same place. Anyone wishing first class groceries call at H. J. Mullers, No. 224 North Main. mustered up courage enough to ask him: "Why, what great change has Be sure you get a leaf with every pur-chase at the Wichita Book company, as come over you, Philetus? You don't act every twenty-five returned to us gets you as you always have. What makes you so happy?" "Good luck, my dear; a stroke of tountry trade, to a good man. A rare good fortune. Quite enough to make a chance to the right man. All staples.

SAM BURGEZER. the gods are on model. forth be a changed man," said he, "Don't you see," he continued, "I put on my last summer's vest this morning. and in one of the pockets I found a quarter I didn't know was there. Hoopee! ha! ha! Let her go, Gallagher!" -Chicago News.

THE GREEN OFFICE BOY.

The Luxurious Report He Provided the

He was a green office boy, and no one minded when he sent down copy to "Mr. Ships," and only the sporting editor got mad when the boy asked the "sporting extra" to step to the tele-But when he nearly ruined phone. one of the copy-readers he got himself

It was Thursday night-the night be fore pay-day-and the copy-reader sighed regretfully as he handed the boy his last dollar bill and had him bring coffee, toast and a beef sandwich These articles are usually procured in the Park row restaurant whose decorations consist of framed Scriptural quotations. Here coffee, toast and a sandwich cost five cents each, with an additional nickel deposit on the tin pail in which the coffee comes. The boy was gone a full half hour and the copy reader was beginning to worry over the possibility of the boy having 'blown in" the dollar when the little fellow returned. He was fairly staggering under a big tray load of dishes covered with a creamy white napkin. Instead of the usual tin pail full of the mixture of coffee, sugar and milk, there was a silver plated coffee pot, a bowl of lump sugar with tongs and little pitcher of cream. There were more napkins and a silver plate of toast, buttered and cut in small triangular pieces. The sandwich was a delicate, expensive creation with the bread cut as thin as paper and the edges trimmed.

This load the boy placed before his half fainting victim. The victim is not a profane man, but he gulped down enough bad words to destroy completely what little appetite he had left.

There was no change, and as the copy reader, who lives in Brooklyn, tramped across the bridge and inhaled the fresh 3 a. m. breezes he vowed a great vow that the office boy who went to get him something to eat would have written directions where to buy.-N. Y. Herald.

-Each of us as we travel the wav of life has the choice according to our working of turning all the voices of nature into one song of rejoicing, or of

COCKERILL'S LETTER.

Story of Henry B. Hyde's Remarkable Business Career.

This Is a Son-in-Law Erg.-A Host of Mer Who Have Become Pamous and a Host Who Are Lost

[COPYRIGHT, 1822.] Occasionally I pass on Broadway the spare, active form of Henry B. Hyde, president of the Equitable Life Assur ance Society, and in his own personal ity as well as by virtue of the great corporation he has practically created, one of the most remarkable men in the world. A friend of Mr. Hyde, in reply to my question asking some details about Hyde's career, said he supposed that less had been printed about this man than any other who ever filled so important a public function. "Hyde," said he, "has, all his life, been a worker and not a talker. It is as true of him now as it was thirty years ago, about which time he conceived the idea of the company whose name he has so efficiently identified with the idea of equity. And he is almost as active now as he was then, although years have told heavily on most of his contemporaries. If it be no small achievement to found an empire or to plan a city, it seems to me fair to make a comparison between them and such an achievement as Hyde's. For he has created and brought up to its highest pitch of usefulness a society-he prefers that word to the term corporation-which, measured alike by the standards of usefulness, wealth, influence and extent, I am very free to say has no peer.

"Now and then I have heard allusions made to the enormous sums annually paid Mr. Hyde by the society as a salary for his services. I consider it a trifle. The directors of the New York Life Insurance Company resolved the other day to pay Mr. William H. Beers, an expresident of that corporation, the sum of $37,500 annually, as a pension, and to some extent in heu of the salary of $75,000 which he had annually received during his incumbency. When some of the policy holders made objections to the payment of what they called such an enormous gratuity, it was discreetly pointed out to them that that gratuity was equivalent to a contribution of about ten cents per year from each of the policy holders, and that for a man who had devoted his life to the service of such a corporation, without growing rich in it, as most corporate officers do, such a contribution was simple justice.

"I don't believe it has ever found its way into type, or, at all events, not so recently but that it is of much interest in this connection-the story of how Mr. Hyde raised the salary issue with his former employers, the Mutual Life Insurance Company, before he had more than matured in his own mind his plan of starting the Equitable. No loubt you have heard that there was a difference of opinion between Mr. Hyde and President Winston. But, as I hear the story on the inside, that difference of opinion was actually about the amount of Mr. Hyde's salary. Already he had become an active, a useful and well-known figure in the life insurance world. It was just before then that an uptown club to which he belonged objected to his talking about life insurance in its clubhouse, and intimated that a life insurance solicitor, such as Mr. Hyde then was, should leave his business or profession behind him when he entered the club doors. Hyde heard of it and got out of the club. But he bore the facts in mind, and in his secretive way has since kept track of the movements and careers of some of the very men most instrumental in censurness. He would have been more than human could he have failed to feel a sentiment something approaching to exultation in his after life over applications made to him by those former club members of his for assistance which he generously and quietly extended. But that little incident has been the keynote of his own life. Insurance, insurance, insurance, has been the topic of his waking and sleeping hours. For my part, I believe this devotion to business is not only the way to get rich, but the very best known method of reaching a serene and vigorous old age with mind and body alike unimpaired.

THE DWIGHT CASE RECALLED. "Did you ever hear the Dwight story? No? Well, I have heard Mr. Hyde say that it was the course his society took in that case which enabled it to take the lead in life insurance and to hold it. Some fifteen years ago Col. Walton B. Dwight, of Binghamton, N. Y., a broad-shouldered blonde giant, six feet two inches in height, bluff, hearty and always up to his eyelids in affairs, died with his life insured for $256,000. Instantly what is now famous as the 'Dwight case' began in the courts and has figured more or less in them ever since, although I believe that even the last of the recalcitrant companies finally paid. "At that time a quarter of a million dollars of life insurance was simply astounding, the very existence of which was of sufficient interest to attract attention from Maine to San Francisco. Col. Dwight's $256,000 had been placed in twenty-six companies, some of which for years attempted to prove all sorts of astounding and romantic hypotheses to release them from their liabilities on the face of his policy. Several of the companies actually formed a partnership with a detective almost as well known as Allan Pinkerton himself, by the terms of which they agreed to pay him $30,000 in each for the production within six months of 'Walton Dwight alive,' or of evidence that 'Dwight had been alive one year subsequent to the 15th of November, 1878.' This was one of the marvelous tales then free discussed and which had been recalled prominently just public attention by the Crandall case at Buffalo, N. Y., in which the fact that the insured has actually been identified years after his death was apparently proven to the insurance sudden one, just four days before the second quarterly premium on his life insurance policies became due. known to be a fact that he had no money with which to pay those pre-miums at that time. At an autopsy held promptly, a number of Col. Dwight's friends and acquaintances were present, as well as physicians representing the insurance company. Five He is almost as sad as the son-in-law the life insurance doctors, who then in- day that Broker Giovani Morosini had a it's in the attic" spected it, declared that a certain gunvery promising young man picked out in heard you up there you shot wound which he was known to for a hunband for his handsome daughting a nail -N. Y. Weekly.

companies. Col. Dwight's death was a have received at the nattle of Gettys-burg, was nowhere to be found. "These were the preliminary incidents of a contest in the courts

has had few parallels. But what my friend, Mr. Hyde, thinks was the turning point in the career of his company had already been reached by him and it in the Dwight case. Immediately on notification of Col. Dwight's death, Mr. Hyde dispatched one of the trustiest agents of his company to Binghamton, telling him to investigate the case thoroughly and report at once. Col. Dwight held $40,000 insurance in the Equitable Company, a very large sum for any one company to hold at that time on any one man's life. While the other twenty-five companies were making their arrangements to litigate the Dwight case, Mr. Hyde received word from his agent at Binghamton, a conscientious and intelligent man, that he could find no good reason why the Equitable Life Assurance society shouldn't pay the claims without delay. Thereupor Mr. Hyde ordered the policies settled, and the Equitable's check for $49,000 was, within ten days, sent to the boneficiary. So great was the public excitement over this case and so widespread and numerous were the publications made in regard to it that the fact that Mr. Hyde's company had so promptly paid such a large sum became known at once all over the civilized world and was of the greatest possible value to the company and to its president as an advertisement. Since then the prosperity of the company has been uninterrupted, and it is now writing policies within a few hundred of the 600,000 mark. Think of what the 600,000 men and women, mostly men, who hold these policies, stand for in the life of the world to-day -the energy, the self-denial, the econ omy, the forethought, the love and affection, indeed, all the best qualities of humanity which are so saliently presented in that phase of their character which prompts them to make these in-

Mr. Henry B. Hyde's life is insured for, I believe, $165,000. John B. Stetson has $360,000. Pierre Lorillard, John Wanamaker, Cyrus W. Field and John V. Farwell have $250,000 apiece. George M. Pullman has $100,000, and Cyrus W. Field at one time had $240,000. An acquaintance of Jay Gould says that the Little Wizard" can produce, on an emergency, policies for $415,000 on his William H. Vanderbilt was at one time insured for $620,000. I believe the heaviest life insurance ever paid was to the heirs of Sir Robert Clifton, of England, who received $1,950,000 at his death. The duke of Newcastle, the marquis of Anglesea and the earl of Fife at one time carried $5,250,000 life insurance between them. Empress Eugenie is now living, I believe, on the interest of the $600,000 life insurance which Napoleon III. left her. THE SON-IN-LAW ERA.

This appears to be the era of the sonin-law. It seems to me there are more sons-in-law just now than are absolutely needed, and vet the list grows with amazing rapidity. I refer to the sonsin-law who are that and nothing else. Mr. Whitelaw Reid, having succeeded to the position and business left him by Horace Greeley, would have made something out of his talents and his opportunities, but the fact that he soon became a son-in-law at once insured his The most conspicuous son-inlaw that this country affords is Col. Elliott F. Shepard. In this fiel I of endeavor he has achieved the most pronounced success, while all around him thousands have utterly failed. Shepard was a very poor lawyer, with hardly one case to rub against another, as it were, when he met and loved the daughter of a Vanderbilt. From that moment he gave up all thoughts of becoming a great lawver and bent all his greatest son-in-law the American republic has ever produced. In this connection I point to Col. Shepard with pride. Had he en nominated for vice president in Minneapolis his declaration of principles might have matched that of David Bennet Hill for brevity and beauty. "I am a democrat," quoth Mr. Hill; while Mr. Shepard could have said: "I am a son-in-law." I have always thought that Mr. Vanderbilt was unjust in his characterization of Son-in-Law Shepard when he said-but never mind what he said. It was unjust and undeserved, and should not appear in a family newspaper anyhow.

A very interesting son-in-law, and one who might have made a great success of it, is Mr. J. Coleman Drayton. Having married an Astor, one would have imagined that he had already accomplished his object all sublime; but the mere marriage ceremony does not constitute everything. A man who cannot maintain himself in a son-in-law ship after he has achieved it might almost as well not have achieved it at all. It would not surprise me if Mr. Drayton proved to be a better man as an ex-sonin-law-for he is practically an ex now than he was as a son-in-law. If he doesn't, he will never accomplish a great deal in this world

There are sons-in-law who deserve to in better company. William C. Whitney married Henry B. Payne's daughter, and a charming woman she is; but he would no doubt have got into the cabinet and have been mentioned for the presidency had he married the daughter of anyone else. My esteemed friend, Mr. J. H. Patterson, the editor of the Chicago Tribune, won honors be fore he won a wife. But as the son-inlaw of Mr. Joseph Medill, the owner of the Tribune, I expect to hear of his continued success in journalism. Mr. Howard Carroll was a good and very wellknown newspaper correspondent, but as a son-in-law of the rich Mr. Starin he is sinking his identity in the steamboat business. There have been great opportunities in journalism since Mr. Carroll forsook it for steamboats, and had he remained true and steadfast to his profession he might now be editing a daily newspaper instead of frittering away a valuable career on board a case of son-in-law is that of Mr. McKee. who married the president's daughter and is the father of Baby McKee. McKee's progeny is a factor in the republic and would be recognized making Ophir. mud pies on any roadside in this country-particularly if grandpa was in the vicinity-but who would recognize Mr. McKee, Sr., if he met him in the big road? Baby McKee might, but it is not certain that he would care to. The son-in-law who does not materialize is another sad phase of this subject. months after the burial Col. Dwight's who does materialize and the old man was exhumed and reexamined and wishes he hadn't. I was told the other

NOW FOR BUSINESS.

Full Lines of Blank Books, Office Stationary. Stock complete in all lines at Lowest GREAT

--THE--HYDE & HUMBLE nothing of Spring and DANGEROUS GAME.

The Vindictive Peccary and Some of Its Queer Traits.

This Strange Animal Select the Branches of a Tree as &

"I haven't the least idea in the world that you ever hunted a peccary, did you?" asked a sportsman who affects a knowledge of and delight in large and out-of-the-common kinds of game, says know, is a little animal somewhat on oculated with the deadly poison of the ing, but that was before the days of Winchester rifles. A bullet from a

Winchester is just searching enough to find a peccary's vitals, but the range

"When a man goes out hunting peccaries he doesn't trip lightly through the forest, steal upon his unsuspecting doesn't. If he did, nineteen seconds after he fired his first shot he would be apportioned out among the drove in two-ounce lots, buttons, boots and baggage counted in. The daring peccary hunter shins up a tall tree near where the cheerful creatures will more than likely come to feed. The peccary has one

Perched safely on a limb the bold huntsman waits for the coming of the peccaries, and when the drove comes trotting and grunting along beneath him he sends a bullet through a peccary's heart. The wounded peccary lies down

"One peccary killed out of a drove,

er to come down. If hate, in the fulles

Then your friends will wonder all their draws the line at bears and mountain lions. If you are looking for either of

When it comes to being the king of "The peccary-I mean the whitepeccary is for-a reminiscence of the bog; the cow and the muskrat-no one one thing is certain, the peccary is Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

After thoroughly testing the Behr Broa-plane along side of one of the oldest and best known bigh grade instruments I can quirement of a strictly first-class

WHERITA KAS., April 12, 1802.

tough and absolutely without fear."

bloated rattlesnake of doesn't want to be too long.

STATIONERY CO.

For the higher and Liberal Education of girls and roung wamen. Specialties: Music, Art. Education: Physical Training. Stram beat. Cold and hot water, bath roome, etc., on each floor. 24th Section begins begin to the 18th For Catalogue address ARCHIBALD A. JONED, Freed.

ter Victoria, when she interfered with the arrangements by eloping with Ernest Schilling, the family coachman. The young man was George Gould. Mr. Morosini had not, it seems, taken his daughter into his confidence in the matter any more than he had Mr. Gould, so it is not claimed that the elopement The Hunters Who Know Anything About was intended as an expression of disapproval of her father's choice. Roswell P. Flower's son-in-law is : young man named J. B. Taylor. He omes from Watertown, and is still content to live there and plod along regardless of the attractions of city which he could have for the asking. Mr. Taylor is in the mercantile business, and at the time he married Miss the New York Sun. "Of course you Flower he was employed as a book. never did, and unless you have a cartkeeper. This did not make any differ. load of nerve and ammunition enough ence either to the bride-elect or her to stock a garrison I wouldn't advise father. The fact that the young man you to. The peccary, as you doubtless was not wealthy was no objection to Gov. Flower, who said at the time that the wild hog order, and he roams prethis son-in-law was a worthy young ty much where he pleases in southern man, and that the lack of money was Texas and abutting regions. There was no detriment whatever. Mr. Taylor is a time when it was thought that nothwell regarded by his friends and ing would kill a peccary but arrows in-neighbors in Watertown. Judge Barnard was a conspicuous son-in-law during the Tweed dynasty. He married into the Anderson tobacco a cheerful way of distilling and applymillions and assisted in dissipating some of this fortune. The story which has been related of Judge Barnard in his capacity as a son-in-law is worth recalling. One day the judge was entertaining a friend when one of the young Barnards, a boy not old enough to realize the delicate position in which a sonin-law is sometimes placed, came into game and bring it down with his trusty the room and said to his father: "Gimme rifle. Not when he hunts peccaries, he ten dollars." After this demand had been several times repeated the judge told him to run along about his business. The boy did so, but came back in a few minutes and repeated his demand with this supplemental statement: "Gimme ten dollars. Ma says it isn't your money, anyhow." Judge Barnard looked helplessly into the face of his great virtue. He can't climb a tree. friend and inquired: "Would the mines of Solomon compensate a son-in-law for that?" A JOURNALIST EXALTED. The nomination of Whitelaw Reid for vice president on the republican national ticket may be accepted. I presume, as a great tribute to American matter. He turns his glittering bead of journalism. Just twenty years have an eye up toward the hunter and dies elapsed since the Tribune had a candidate on a national ticket. The sad and tragic ending of that experimental atthe hunter must either have ammunitempt to exalt a great newspaper writer and thinker has militated somewhat, I think, against the elevation of the survivors at once take positions newspaper directors in politics. Mr. around and about the tree and sit there are in their haunches waiting for the huntied by a man who enters the world with a fixed and earnest pur- sense of the word, can be expressed by pose imbedded in his soul. I can im- looks, then the peccary can look and act agine him when a writer on the Cincin- it toward any living thing that has nati Gazette looking forward to the done it or its companion an injury. The time when he would own and direct a peccaries were the original knights of great daily newspaper himself. Gifted labor, for their motto has been from the with energy and patience and equipped beginning: 'An injury to one is the conwith a good education and good habits, cern of all.' They never let up when he had only to form a purpose and extension to average an injury. ecute it. As a war correspondent he The hunter may shoot one achieved distinction although it took snother of the waiting and watching Gen. Sherman fully twenty years to drove, and each one, as it receives its forgive him for the account of the bat- death wound, lies down without a murtle of Shiloh which he wrote at Pitts- mur and dies, never removing its glarburgh Landing two days after the fight ing eyes from its slayer as long as life from information furnished by people lasts. The living peccaries pay no atwho saw very little of it. That piece tention to the dead or dying, but ait of work caused great discussion in Ohio, there on their haunches, hoping for rebut Gen. Sherman, who was one of the venge until the last one dies. As a drove most forgiving of men, finally came to of peccaries will in ten seconds tear a number Mr. Reid among his intimates. grizzly bear into such minute fragments Mr. Reid's greatest literary achieve- that you can scarcely find a piece of ment, perhaps, was the writing the bone two inches long after the cere-"History of Ohio in the War." This he mony is over, you can imagine what did remarkably well. When he came show a hunter would have in meeting a to New York as a lieutenant to Horace hostile group of them. But unmolested Greeley it can well be believed that he nursed in his bosom the ambition to be-drove of sheep, except toward bears or come the owner and editor of the Trib-mountain lions. You may pass une. Fate so decreed it. He passed within ten feet of a drove through all the intermediary stages of these vindictive little animals, and ridicule and then abuse, and then en- they will not notice you with joyed the sweets of adulation which any hostile intent unless you are foolcome to those who succeed. Always ish enough to commit some overt act. affable, diplomatic, trained to observe and weigh, Mr. Reid is well qualified to lives whatever could have become of attain and enjoy the honors in the gift you. The peccary, for some reason, of his fellow men.

His matrimonial alliance gave him great social and financial standing, and the latter and find peccaries, change with a newspaper yielding him a profit your base. You will find neither grizof at least $100,000 per year it is not to zly, sliver tip, brown or black bears, be marveled at that he should seek to nor mountain ilons within miles of any plant himself next door to the pres- range where peccaries are feeding. idency. As minister to France he was a splendid entertainer and he made American beasts the peccary holds the hosts of friends. It can be seen now scepter. that this ministership was but one step in the programme of political advance- tipped peccary, the only one that trav-Mr. Reid has been more than els in droves, the other one, the colfortunate, but it would be a mistake to lared peccary, being shy and harmless suppose that he is in any sense a and going only in pairs-is odd in every creature of luck. He owes what he has way. Physically, as well as morally to his ability, his foresight and his de- he seems to be an abnormal sort of termination to win. It would be difficereature. He has the general appear cult to find a journalist so happly ance and habit of the hog, but the hoofs placed as Mr. Reid. He has charming and three stomache of the cow. On his hildren, his town house is a section of back he has a gland which secretes a the million-dollar pulsee that the wild musk, and three minutes after a peccary speculator Villard built on Madison av- is killed its fiesh will be entirely imenue some years ago and was unable to pregnated with the secretion. live in, and his country residence is a what this composite construction of the beautiful farm in Westchester county. bordering on the sound, which he calls

JOHN A. COCKERTLA

Husband-Where is the batchet? Wife-in the attic. "If you saw it in the attic, why didn't you being it down?" I shdn't see it."

Then who did?" No one that I know of." "Then how in creation do you know

"I heard you up there yesterday drivaret Enatro El

SACRIFICE CLEARING SALE CONTINUES

from day to day until Summer Goods remain, all articles advertised in last Sunday's issue of this paper continue on sale, lose no time, now is the opportunity to buy Merchandise at less than cost of manufacture.

bloated rattlesnake of the Staked Special Cash Bargains for this Week.

> new Steinway piano, unright $385. l new Behr Bros, piano, upright $325, l new Webber piano, upright $410. 1 new Hallet & Davis piano, large, $325, 1 new Estey piano, upright, $310, 1 new Newby & Evans piano, fancy

ине $335. 1 second-hand Chicago Cottage, little 1 second-hand Briggs, little used, $125. second-hand Vase & Son, square

A line of specials on organs, at $25 to $75. The above are all big bargains and you should not miss them if you want a

BICYCLES.

I have the best known to the trade, the ictor, Posumatic, I have never known to be punctured; the Columbia is considered by experts to have no superior. The Hartford is the same: the Union 2:10 is another high grade tire. Any of above seldom ever need repair. If you hear a dealer always talking repairs and how they can do it, you may be sure their wheel will always need it. I will sell you one that seldom ever needs re-pairs. If it ever does is as easy to do as

THOS. SHAW. 129 North Main St.

HOTEL CAREY. $2 TO $3 PER DAY

"Fret Train for Wichita People." Wichita to Chicago without change of cars via the Great Hock Island route. Leave Wichita at 5:50 a.m. and arrive in Chicago next morning at 7:15. Free reciping chair cars. Pullman palace sleeping cars, and elegant dining cars on this train.

City Ticket & Passet H. Wissant. City Ticket & Passenger Agent, Wichita, Kan.

Jones Serastian, G. T. & P. A., Chicago, Ill. 6166 tf A Magn Scent Train for Chicago via hands Fe

Leaving Wichita at 11:65 a. m., arriving Chicago 9.15 a. us. next day. Vestibule For the pretty schoolma'am and her friends, the great meeting of 1892 is that of the National Educational association at Saratoga Springs, N. V. The date is July 12-15. The rate is one fare for round trip iplus have selected the Santa Fo route to Chica-go as the official line for their special vesti-buled train. Through chair cars and Pull-man sloppers have been secured. This train will probably leave Kansas City evening of July 2. A better chance is varely offered for a therp trip to the old bomestead "back seems to have discovered as yet. But east Local agent of A. T. & S. F. R. R. will extend it a privilege to fully explain the

$5.00 membership fee), and is open to everywith great winform the Kanaus teachers.

Destination flate Tickets on bule Limit Kansas City, Mo. and return 615 Aug 30 to 35 Sept 15 Penver and rec. 17.00 Aug 4 to 10 Get, 10

The above rates are all single fares for he round try. For further information lesse call at the Book Island ticket office. 60, corner Main street and Do one. Pussenger deput corner Mead and Douglas avenues. W. H. Whitant,